

Are you a health practitioner involved in treating and caring for patients with cancer?

Researchers at the University of Liverpool are looking for practitioners who work with patients from Black and Minority Ethnic backgrounds with existing health conditions such as dementia, stroke, cardiovascular disease or Parkinson's disease who have been diagnosed with cancer. We are keen to explore your experiences of supporting such patients and learn how you feel their treatment and care could be improved.

For more information please email Dr Lena O'Connell lenao@liverpool.ac.uk
or call 07503 792 722

